From: "Financial Times Briefing" <FT@news-alerts.ft.com> [52.89.235.179]
To: "Barak barak" <Ehbarak1@gmail.com>
Date: 4/4/2016 5:00:30 AM UTC
Subject: In today's FT: Sterling fears mount as EU vote looms...

Monday April 4 2016

UK HOMEPAGE

Sterling fears mount as EU vote looms

Sharp rise in cost of insurance against a plunge in the pound

Panama leak draws scrutiny to tax havens

Mossack Fonseca documents reverberate from Russia to Iceland to Fifa

Lagarde dismisses Greek default claim

Content of leaked transcript prompts anger in Athens

US HOMEPAGE

Deutsche loses top 3 slot in bank ranking

JPMorgan and Goldman head benchmark industry league table

Tesla Model 3 orders point to $10bn sales

Demand raises questions about Elon Musk group's capacity to ramp up manufacturing

US jobs data give Asia bourses a fillip

Japan struggles to hold gains as yen strengthens, while HK and China are shut for holiday

EUROPE HOMEPAGE

Virgin America nears sale to Alaska Air

$2bn bid would value Branson-backed US carrier at significant premium to market price

Europe profits growth seen at 7-year low

Region languishes in a corporate earnings recession

Steel woes puts focus on energy subsidies

Germany hands out €9bn to heavy industry, dwarfing amount paid by Britain

ASIA HOMEPAGE

Trump brands Nato an ‘obsolete’ alliance

Republican contender steps up his attack on the transatlantic organisation

Billionaires excel in school of life

About a quarter of the world’s richest entrepreneurs are university dropouts, survey finds

China revives citizen ‘grid management’

Return of block-by-block booths to help administer cities and root out dissent

MARKETS

The Panama papers, a spy reveals all and the self-induced twilight of the west

Leaked documents will prove to be probably the biggest blow in the offshore world

Fed flip-flops are a reflection of global uncertainty

Markets engaged in an unhealthy codependency with central bank policy

Renminbi bears rethink currency bets

Hedge funds weigh whether a much weaker currency will prevail

Banks told to boost bids for UK debt

Government seeks to stave off possibility of failed gilt auctions as lender participation declines

SEC investigates ex-JPMorgan debt traders

Early stage inquiry comes amid growing regulatory scrutiny of opaque $13tn Treasury market

WORLD NEWS

Europe’s banks begin tentative return to Iran

Large banks still wary after big fines for earlier breaches and continuation of many US sanctions

Javid angers steel industry over EU tariff rules

Business secretary fights back over handling of Tata crisis

Greece prepares to return asylum seekers to Turkey

Fears that deportations could spark unrest amid questions over legality of EU plan

Syria ceasefire under threat as rebel groups claw back territory

Opposition regains momentum after regime’s capture of Palmyra

Thousands of Poles march against proposed abortion law

Law and Justice government wants all terminations to be illegal

COMPANIES NEWS

Banks braced for additional £22bn in PPI claim payouts

Almost half of compensation paid so far represents interest rather than premiums

Top civil servant to leave Treasury and resume City career

John Kingman played leading role in bank bailouts in 2008 financial crisis

Flood Re expects 350,000 properties to be put into scheme

Affluent areas to benefit most from nationwide home insurance plan

Breakthrough for Scottish tidal power generation

Floodgates expected to open after Equitix announces plans for £100m investment

Sanofi to launch dengue mass vaccination programme

One million Filipino school children to be given shots costing €20 apiece

COMMENT

A new world where value grows sustainably

From Steven E Connell, Chief Executive, Diamond Head Financial Advisors

Wright's magical triptych on science applies today

From John Forkin, Derby, UK

Our incoherent energy policy is undermining investor confidence

From Barry Gardiner MP, Labour, Brent North

Freed to generate growth

From Matthew Scott, Henley on Thames, Oxon, UK

Why would Japan not want the economy to flourish?

From Nicholas D Rosen, Arlington, VA, US

MANAGEMENT

Three ways to propel more women to the top of business schools

Gender balance need a rethink of which subjects are 'serious', says Kellogg's Sally Blount

Off Grid Electric lights a safer path for Tanzanians

Start-up developed at Oxford's Saïd Business School replaces kerosene with solar power

Savvy millennials reveal GMAT strategies

Trends in the business school entry test — plus tips from our MBA bloggers

Feedback: Chatbots versus humans

The merits of conversation with a real person over artificial intelligence are dissected by readers

A gold star from bosses makes employees work even harder

Being ranked top — or bottom — when compared to colleagues can be highly motivating

Feedback

Manage portfolio

Subscribe to the FT

Follow the FT

Unsubscribe | My Account | RSS | Privacy Policy | About Us | Help

© THE FINANCIAL TIMES LTD 2016

You have received this email because you have signed up from the NBE preference page.
This email was sent by a company owned by Financial Times Group Limited (FT Group), registered office at Number One Southwark Bridge, London SE1 9HL.
Registered in England and Wales with company number 879531.